Introduction

Adolescents girls and young women are a priority within the DREAMS mandate and in all advocacy efforts and programmes worldwide. In South Africa, 41% population is made up of young people between the ages of 14 and 35 years. The South African National Youth Policy places a commitment towards prioritizing the needs of young people with respect to education, health and well-being, economic participation and social cohesion.

The World Health Organization estimated that 36.7 million people were living with HIV in 2015. Sub-Saharan Africa is the most severely affected region, accounting for nearly 70% of people living with HIV worldwide.

It is within this context that in September 2015 the international community committed to ending AIDS by 2030, as part of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). In support of this objective, the U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) and supporting organizations, including Johnson & Johnson, launched DREAMS, which is an ambitious $385 million partnership to reduce HIV infections among adolescent girls and young women in 10 sub-Saharan African countries.

Girls and young women account for 74% of new HIV infections among adolescents in sub-Saharan Africa. The 10 DREAMS countries account for more than half of all the new HIV infections that occurred among adolescent girls and young women globally in 2015. The goal of DREAMS is to support Adolescent Girls and Young Women to develop into Determined, Resilient, Empowered, AIDS-free, Mentored and Safe women.

Within this framework, Johnson & Johnson facilitated workshops focused on insight generation with adolescent girls and young women in nine DREAMS countries in 2016. Feedback from these workshops outlined three principal areas which the girls felt needed to be addressed to instill behavior change and decrease engagement in risky sexual behavior. These areas were on employment and employability, leadership skills and sexual and reproductive health. Against this background Johnson & Johnson and UNFPA South Africa Country Office entered into a public-private partnership in June 2017 to implement the DREAMS Thina Abantu Abasha (DREAMS TAA) Programme in KwaZulu-Natal and Gauteng. The purpose of the Programme is to contribute towards the DREAMS goal of reducing HIV infection amongst Adolescent Girls and Young Women (AGYW).

The Program was successfully implemented in City of Johannesburg and City of Ekurhuleni in Gauteng in 2018 – 2019. The Program will be implemented in City of Tshwane District in 2020.
